The Innovation Center enhances the role of Emirati women

In order with the center's vision and achieving its strategic objectives, the Entrepreneurship, Innovation and Small Business Development Center at Al Ain University implemented an event on the occasion of Emirati Women's Day, during which it hosted a group of Emirati women entrepreneurs.

Ms. Roya Al Junaibi, Takamul Program Officer from the Department of Economic Development, presented a workshop on the support provided by Takamul program to innovators and entrepreneurs in the field of intellectual property. The students also met Emirati entrepreneur Mona Al Hammadi, who holds a patent on dermatological treatments.

The center aims, through the event, to present an honorable model for the pioneering Emirati woman and her position in society as an essential and influential element in various sectors and an urgent necessity for the progress of society.
